BUY OF THE MOMENT:

Okay, we know this looks like a weird one, but work with us here... The TummyTub may appear to be, well, a bucket on a stand, but it's actually the hot new thing in baby baths. It's all about taking babes under six months back to the womb, as they sit curled up in the tub and the only support they need is your hand under their chin. It's said to be incredibly soothing and calming, and is being pounced on by midwives and hospitals all over the world (who cannot sing its praises loudly enough). If you've ever tried to bathe a slippery, screaming newborn, you'll know that anything that can possibly make the experience any easier must be worth a try. We're sold.
