TummyTub is the best way to bath baby

The TummyTub has been endorsed by medical professionals worldwide as the best way to bath a baby.

Used in homes, neo-natal units, maternity wards, nurseries and children's hospitals in Europe for more than 10 years the TummyTub is now available in Australia.

Not only is it the safest, easiest and most calming way to bath a baby, Australian parents will be pleased to learn the TummyTub uses only 5 litres of water or a third of that used in conventional baby baths.

Like the womb

The TummyTub has been developed with physicians, midwives and nursery nurses, to ease the transition from the secure environment of the womb to the new world.

The unique womb shape design of the TummyTub helps newborn to two-year-old babies to relax in a familiar fetal position and retains the bath water at a comfortable level for 20 minutes.

It is particularly useful for settling babies with sleep problems or colic.

Safety first

The TummyTub is specially curved to help support baby, has an anti-skid base and meets the most stringent product, environmental and safety regulations (ASTM, BSI and TÜV).

Easy to use

Parents only need to support their baby's head under the chin. The advantage being that they always have one free hand to wash and comfort your baby.

It's lightweight and easy to carry, which is especially important for mothers after a Caesarian.

Made of sturdy plastic, the Tummy Tub is easily stored and transportable, has no moving parts, requires no fastening or snapping and can be cleaned with mild detergent.

Multifunctional stand

The TummyTub Stand makes it much easier to wash baby while sitting comfortably. There's no need to stoop over the bath or sit on the floor.

The height adjustable multifunctional stand with storage compartment can be later used as a two-step stool or seat when the child grows.

The TummyTub retails for $59.95 and multifunctional stand for $119.95. Both are available online at www.sunros.com.au or from selected stockists nationally.
